In the general household economy, one of the most prelific, and hoyond question the most constant source of wests, is the kitchen drainage. Take the average of all our American homes, and of all the nuterial that goes into the kitchen, twenty live per cent, goes out as offal, sheer weste, when six per cent, ought, in all cases, to be the maximum. And yet it is scercely possible to indicate that cork or housekeeper who will not argue should that cork or housekeeper who will not argue cook or bousekeeper was. And they honestly believe it, for heblt is their education, and it is rather their education than themselves that is at fault, though that fact does not argue that they fault, though that fact does not argue that they ought not to improve their kitchen education.

With such examples before us as that of the Sovereign of Great Britain, and a thousand of Crumh it line and boil it with your coffee. It improves the flavor of all the ordinary kinds, as Rio, Lagueyra, St. Domingo, &c., and takes nothing from that of Java and Moche; besiden it is an excellent corrective and tonic where the stomache is disposed to urdine acidity.

Don't waste the crumbs and bits of stale hread it is absolutely wicked. Soak in a puart of sweet milk, beat in two eggs, edd a teaspoonful of all-spice, a little nulmeg, bake 20 minutes, and you have a delicious pudding enficient for six reasonable persons.

Save ell the odds and ends of meat left at dinder, whether beef, veal, mutton, pork, or hom, chop it with cold boiled potatees into a fine nince, and bown nicely in the dripping-pan for break.

With a family of four romping girls, all under 12 years of age, and one boy, the junior of three of the girls, thare is of necessity a rather extensive wear and tear of cotton febrics. Nevertheless, when worn past ell offices of lecency, we do not permit the material to go entirely to waste. Every spirel is carefully hestowed in the rag, beg, and ard sold to the itinerant dealer in such morchandise, the proceeds supplying an always with all the baskets, brooms, dust-brushes, and that-paus we need.

Mrs. E. D. Kendall, in Country Gentleman.

Now Clergynen Came to Wear Black—In the year 1524 Lutber Lid aside the monk's costume, and henceforth dress of according to the fashiou of the world. He close black clothes, and consequently the color has become the fashiou of the clergy. His reasons for choosing this months ago and now end then sant him a piece of black clothes, and now end then sant him a piece of black clothes, being at that time the court fashion; and because Luther preferred it, so his scholars thought it became them to wear the same color as their master. From that time black has been the color mostly worn by the clergy.

Gun cotton burns so suddenly that it is ept to hurst cennon, if used in them in place of gunpowder. But it has been suggested to us, says the Scientific American, that this same property peculiarly fits this substance for the charging of hombshells. We do not see why the idea is not a good one.

Lord Cempbell said he himself heard a judge at Statford thus sentence a prisoner to death for forgery: "And, I trust, through the merits and medication of our hlessed Redemer, you may experience that mercy, in another world, which a due regard to the credit of the paper currency of the country forbids you to hope for here."
